Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

This is the second installment of an article by Charles Downie appearing in the San Francisco Chronicle which gives an overall picture of the operation of the Lend-Lease Act.

By CHARLES DOWNIE

In England the U. S. armed forces is a kind of Aladdin with the British War Office in Whitehall as its lamp. A telephone call to Whitehall will bring just about anything—immediately. All requests of the U. S. Command have 1A priority. Perhaps the prime example occurred last year.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and General Bernard Montgomery faced one another across the barren coastal neck at El Alamein. Both were massing forces for an offensive. It was a race to see which would be prepared first. In England supplies had been scheduled; fuel, men, planes, trains allocated. Preparations for the Allied invasion to come in North Africa when Montgomery had Rommel on the run were already going forward.

Then an American officer called Whitehall: "Colonel this is the U. S. Army Headquarters in London. Can you get me —tank cars of gasoline at —depot tomorrow? I will need that many every day for a week or 10 days."

The British colonel stayed up all night. By morning timetables had been shuffled, refinery pumping orders had been revised. and the gas was at the U. S. depot. No one stopped to ask the U. S. officer what he wanted his supplies for.

Not all the requests are so serious .The U. S. Army asked for 100.000 pinochle decks to supply the Post Exchanges. The only hitch was that the English didn't play pinochle and thus there were no pinochle decks to be had. But special plates were made and the decks struck off.

At the larger airfields in Britain revetments were widely dispersed. It was often a long hike from the ready room to the plane and American fliers complained. The Air Force asked for 13,000 bicycles. Now in England the bicycle is not a child's plaything. Even before gas rationing it was the common man's vehicle. his ticket to the country on his day off. With rationing, of course, the bicycle was in even greater demand and they were hard to find. But the pilots got their 13.000 bicycles.

It was the same with corn. The British normally dont grow or eat corn. But the Americans wanted corn and so hundreds of acres of "maize" now grow in England and American soldiers get their corn on the cob.

The landing of Allied forces in North Africa was as pretty a mixture of lend-lease plus reverse lend-lease as can be found. Most of the landing craft were American, but the large part of the crews were British. U. S. fighter squadrons used 160 Spitfires over Algeria. The engineering troops that landed and laid down new air fields or repaired old had been supplied by the British with 100 miles of portable runways. One U. S. division went into action completely equipped with British 25-pounders. British pilots flew P-40Fs and Bostons.

Every United Nations outfit had simply stocked up with the equipment it needed from the nearest supply base. If it was British they used British equipment, and if it chanced to be American they used American supplies. No one bothered to write it down on the books for posterity and a post war squabble over dollar values.

As the campaign progressed and the casualties flowed back, they were evacuated by British or American ships, indiscriminately.

Brigadier Gen. Paul R. Hawley, Chief Surgeon of U. S. Forces in Europe, put it very nicely.

"British-American medical understanding is as near perfect as it can be. We share British hospital ships, and if there is no room in our hospitals for our men we put them in British ships. And there is no haggling about who pays. British and Americans are lying side by side in the hospital wards, drawing the same rations, and we keep no financial accounts for presentations."

Most U. S. hospitals in Britain are built or being built under reverse lend-lease. When they are finished they are handed over complete to the last scalpel and eyedropper. So far fourteen county hospitals are being readied and five are already in American hands. The British built complete ambulance trains according to specifications of U. S. Army Medical men. For the North African affair U. S. forces were supplied with several 1000 bed field hospitals, operating facilities.

EBAUGH AGAIN FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

William Ebaugh, 35, of Willow Valley adjoining Nevada City, charged with grand theft, was yesterday a fugitive from justice. Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen states that he has evidence that Ebaugh killed three head of cattle belonging to cattlemen in the general vicinity of Ebaugh's cabin.

Following clues provided by Charles Morandi, whose cattle range from Scott's Flat westward down the Deer Creek canyon to Willow Valley, Sheriff Tobiassen and Game Warden Earl Hiscox yesterday morning approached the Ebaugh cabin to investigate. Ebaugh warned by his dog of their approach bounded out the rear door, through his berry patch and into the thick brush. Hiscox fired one shot but this only increased Ebaugh's fast pace. An examination of his cabin revealed the fresh forequarter of a yearling steer, and meat ready for canning in glass jars. A young steer with the forequarter missing was found within 500 yards of the cabin.

A felony warrant for Ebaugh's arrest was issued yesterday afternoon and the sheriff with several of his deputies set out in search of Ebaugh. They did not find him but did find a tub of decaying meat suspended down one mine shaft on Ebaugh's property and gunny sack filled with meat hung down another shaft. Both lots were fly blown and of extremely high voltage.

Sheriff Tobiassen stated last evening that if necessary he will call in his mounted posse and thoroughly search the Willow Valley country for the missing man.

Ebaugh has twice been acquitted of rape during the last five years. He wears his hair in tawny ringlets and sports a golden hued beard. In his collisions with the law, attorneys defending him usually persuade him to shear his mane and thus shorn he makes a presentable appearance in court. When he is apprehended and placed on trial this time Deputy Sheriff Carl Larsen declares, he will have no benefit of barber, but will be presented to the jury in the same guise as he is known to his neighbors in Willow Valley.

DEATH CLAIMS LIFE LONG NEV. CITY RESIDENT

The sudden death Tuesday morning of Mrs. Nellie Rolfe Wright, widow of the late H. J. Wright was a shock to her many friends in Nevada City.

Mrs. Wright had been in apparently the best of health for some time past, working about her home at 548 East Broad Street and only last week attended the anniversary dinner of Trinity Episcopal Church in the Elks Club.

Mrs. Wright was born in Nevada City on July 7th, 1860. Despite her years she was exceedingly active and took a keen interest in her home life, and in the affairs of Nevada City. She was well informed in the activities of the city and while devoted to her home she found time to be neighborly and helpful.

She and her late sister, Mrs. Belle Douglass possessed active minds, remembered events of the past and delighted in recounting them to friends.

She was the mother of seven sons, five of whom survive. The are: Dr. H. Julian of Healdsburg; Frank and Court of Nevada Sity; Roland of Sacramento and Harlan of Hayward.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Holmes Funeral Home with Rev. Cedric S. Porter of Trinity Episcopal Church officiating.

WILLOW VALLEY ACREAGE

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Oliver of Oakland purchased the fice acre tract of land and house of Mr. and Mrs. Will Davis of Willow Valley. It is known as the Sarah Howe property and is situated near the recently burned school house in Willow Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver plan to make it their home.

RUBBER SOLED KIDDIES SHOES UNRATIONEDSOON

To provide relief from the shortage of children's shoes, the Office of Price Administration has announced that a new supply of children's rubber-soled shoes will be available ration free about the first of the year.

In general children up to about eight years of age will benefit, since ration free sales are limited to small sizes to encourage production in the pre-school and early school age range where the shortage is now most serious.

In addition, a limited number of "obsolete" adults' shoes will also be sold ration free as soon as dealers have filed necessary lists with the OPA Ditrict Office. Types of wearable shoes that have deteriorated or are out of style will be sold ration free only at one dollar or less a pair. If higher prices are charged, ration stamps must be obtained and turned over to the district office of OPA within five days.

Hereafter, ration stamps issued for refund to customers returning shoes will no longer have a 30 day time limit but will be good indefinitely.

TWO IMPORTANT MINE MEETINGS IN NEVADA CITY

Nevada City will be the scene of two important mining organization meetings this week. The Western Mining Council will meet in the National Hotel tomorrow evening, and the California Hydraulic Miners Association will meet in the same place Sunday afternoon.

On the program of the Western Mining Council are a report by Capt. John D. Hubbard on the iron deposit survey, information from Congressman Clair Engle on the same subject, a decision on amendments to the Scrugham Stock Pile bill, a report from the committee which recently conferred with Gov. Earl Warren, and a review of the councils action seeking reopening of the gold mines.

The California Hydraulic Miners Association will discuss methods of getting out scrap mining machinery from abandoned mines.

CHARTS TO SHOW AUTO LICENSE FEES POSTED

Charts showing the amounts due in motor vehicle license tax and registration fees for 1944 on all types and models of motor vehicles will be placed in Nevada City gasoline service stations about December 1st.

While the fees due in 1944 will be exactly the same as were paid for license renewal this year, vehicle owners of Nevada City who do not remember how much they paid this year may ascertain the amounts they will have to pay for 1944 registration by consulting the charts.

Gordon H. Garland, Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, announces this arrangement has been made with the California Petloeum Industry Committee in order to eliminate the expense of mailing special notifications of amounts due to the nearly 3,000,000 vehicle owners of the state. Despite a sharp increase in values of used vehicles, a legislative act sponsored by the Department "freezes" the vehicle license fees for 1944 and 1945 at the 1943 level.

Director Garland gives this advice to vehicle owners:

"Your license and registration fees are due January 1st. If your registration card does not show how much is due and you do not remember how much you paid this year, consult the charts which the petroleum industry of California has kindly permitted us to place in your neighborhood service station. Your application together with the fee may be mailed to the nearest main branch office of the department of presented at the registration counters after January 1st."

Tin Can Pick-up In Grass Valley Tomorrow

Capt. Jos. E. Blake of the California Highway Patrol and chairman of the Nevada County Salvage Committee announces that tin cans throughout Grass Valley will be picked up tomorrow. Beverage company trucks will make the rounds.

All those who live outside the city limits are requested to bring their tin cans to the community pile in Hills Flat tomorrow. On Saturday Army trucks from Camp Beale will haul the cans to Southern Pacific freight yards.

War Chest Campaign Opens In Grass Valley

Stephen H. Crase, vice president of the California War Chest, Monday evening addressed a big meeting in Grass Valley of participants in the drive. The meeting took place in the James S. Hennessy school auditorium with William Wilson, drive chairman, presiding.

Mrs. Hugh Brown, chairman of the residential districts section, reported that 20 committee women have secured aids, insuring rapid progress when the house-to-house campaign opens.

Business sections of Grass Valley are being canvassed. Del Powell is the chairman, G. G. Cramer is in charge of the drive in the Hills Flat section.

Grass Valley Methodists To Celebrate Mortgage Lifting

The members of the Methodist Church will celebrate the end of the mortgage lifting drive with a dinner in Wesley Hall. Lieutenant Colonel H. F. Travis will be the guest speaker. His topic will be Our Post War Responsibilities.

The victory dinner will be held Tuesday evening, November 16th, and marks the clearing up of a debt of approximately $3,900, all that remains on a property valued at $65,000 consisting of the church buildings, Wesley Hall and furnishings and equipment, on a large lot on South Church street.

Col. Travis the speaker for the occasion commanded a battalion of Military Police during the first world war, and has had much to do with the work of interning and controlling the Japanese during the present war.

Other prizes were earned as follows. Second by Jackie Sheldon, who secured $11.32. third by Joan Sheldon, who secured $8.39, fourth by Lucerne Hawthorne and Jean Knight $7.92 and fifth by Raymond Ellis, $7.47.

The next three and the amounts collected were. Barbara Williams, $6.77, Lois Beverage $6.27 and Mervyn Hanson, $6.03. Others workers were made happy by movie passes.

The sponsors are grateful to those who worked so faithfully and to all who contributed in any way to the success of the undertaking.

County Share In Gas Tax Is $13,020

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 11.—State Controller Harry B. Riley today apportioned $13,020.54 in gasoline tax money to Nevada County as part of a $11,308,250 distribution for the quarter ending last September 30. Nevada County's share was computed on the basis of a motor vehicle registration of 4,872.

Controller Riley said the apportionment was $1,970,646 or 15.15% less than that for the corresponding quarter last year.

Riley distributed one third of the $11,038,250 to the counties, and deposited the balance of $7,358,833 in the state highway fund. From the latter amount, the Division of Highways will allocate $1,839,708 to be expended for highway construction and maintenance within cities of California and the balance of $5,519,125, remaining in the highway fund will be expended on the state highway system.

GAS CRISIS, SAYS GEN. EMMONS IS APPROACHING

Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commanding general of the Western Defense Command, has called upon all motorists to help avert a "gasoline shortage in the west of drastic proportions" and an "alarming shortage of tires."

"The Pacific Coast today faces a major transportation crisis," Emmons said. "For that reason I appeal to every citizen to cooperate with the government by complying strictly with the mileage rationing regulations of the Office of Price Administration, making use of public transportation, and by sharing rides with others."

Despite tremendous increases in the output of refineries, less gasoline is available for civilians use. Less automobile gasoline is being processed from each barrel of crude oil as increasing amounts of oil go into high octane aviation fuel, toluene for explosives, butadiene for snythetic rubber and into scores of other petroleum war products.

Demands of the armed forces will soon reach 55 per cent of the total gasoline output, according to advice received by the OPA.

Gasoline available to civilians is running some 500,000 barrels short of the daily pre war supply as military needs take increasing amounts.

War demands will swell with every shipment of tanks, jeeps, and planes sent abroad.

Less automobile gasoline is being processed from each barrel of crude oil as increasing amounts of oil into high octane aviation fuel, toluene for explosives, butadiene for synthetic rubber, and into scores of other petroleum war products. Only about 25% of each 42 gallon barrel of crude oil now goes into gasoline for civilian use, as opposed to 37% in 1940-1941.

Need for 80 octane all purpose gasoline is increasing rapidly, but tetraothyl or lead for stepping up this fuel to its high level is not plentiful. Lead content of automobile gasoline has already been reduced. Government agencies predict further curtailment of this component in civilian gasoline, with a consequent decline in motor and mileage performance.

West Coast crude oil production has increased from 630,000 barrels daily in December 1941 to 770,000 barrels daily at present. Nevertheless military demands have caused total petroleum stocks to decline during that period by some million barrels. Pacific war demands are taxing the productive ability of the West Coast to the limit.

Many people have no conception of the need for gasoline and rubber conservation. They want to get just as much gasoline as they can get—instead of leaving as much as they can in the national reservoir for use by the armed forces.

The tremendously important role oil and gasoline play in the lifeblood of our war machine is illustrated by the following highlights:

To train an American pilot for the front lines requires 12,500 gallons of gasoline. We are training 100,000 pilots. 12,500 x 100,000 equals 1,250,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

In actual combat, one engine of an army or navy plane uses approximateely 100 gallons of gasoline an hour, or 1 1-2 gallons a minute.

A destroyer at sea uses more than 5000 gallons of fuel oil an hour, or about 84 gallons a minute.

An aircraft carrier uses 33,000 gallons of fuel oil an hour, or 550 gallons a minute.

A Flying Fortress uses 400 gallons per hour. One gallon lasts 9 seconds.

In a recent bomber raid over Germany one million gallons of 100-octane gasoline were consumed.

MUSICAL EVENT

Sixty guests attended the musical program of Franc Luschen in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Radue Sr. on Empire Road on Sunday. Luschen is a musician of note and has played in the Hollywood Bowl during the winter programs for several years. There were several from Nevada City attending the affair and enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Radue in their home.

ROOSEVELT FACE TO FACE WITH MAJOR DECISION

By CLEM WHITAKER

The smashing defeats which the Democratic Party machine suffered in New York and New Jersey last week, and in several other states where Republican candidates bowled over their New Deal rivals in the late fall elections, have served to revive reports that President Roosevelt may call it quits when his present term expires and not seek re-election.

It is doubtful, however, whether even the president knows yet what his ultimate decision will be in the matter, for it will be the most difficult decision of his whole political career.

In view of the new surge of Republican power, Roosevelt faces the threat of losing even his home state of New York, if he seeks a fourth term—and it is highly questionable whether he could win without it.

After three, precedent-shattering terms in the White House — more than any other president has served in the entire history of the nation —it would be a disastrous anti-climax to be defeated seeking a fourth term. And Roosevelt, great dramatist that he is, always has shied away from anti-climax.

On the other hand, regardless of what his personal desires may be, Roosevelt will be literally and actually drafted by the Democratic National Convention to run again, unless he flatly says "No" to the demands of all the party leaders. Four year ago, the "draft Roosevelt"; move was a pleasant political subterfuge; Roosevelt wanted to be nominated and would have been the most surprised man in America if he hadn't been. But in '44, it will be different; the party now needs him, for it faces almost certain defeat without him. There are simply no possible successors to the throne worthy of mentioning—and with defeat likely even with Roosevelt heading the ticket, it would be virtually inevitable without him.

The Republican party, despite its sweeping successes in recent elections—and its high hopes of victory next year—likewise is faced with a difficult decision. Wendell Willkie, the GOP standard-bearer in 1940, is actively campaigning to become the '44 nominee—and has made good headway in that direction. If the Republican convention were held today, Mr. Willkie, according to most astute observers, would probably win the nomination on the first ballot.

On the other hand, there is a definite "Stop Willkie" movement under way among GOP leaders who don't like the blunt-spoken gentleman. But it's a fundamental rule of politics that "You can't beat somebody with noboby."—and thus far the anti-Willkie contingent hasn't been able to find or agree on a candidate of sufficient stature to pit against him.

Those who are spearheading the "Stop Willkie" drive would undoubtedly rally to Governor Dewey of New York, if Mr. Dewey would consent to be their candidate—but Dewey, having promised the people of New York that he would serve out his four-year term as governor, could only accept the presidential nomination if it were actually forced on him. He can't openly campaign for it—and he probably can't beat Willkie unless he does campaign for it. That's his dilemma. And it's almost as tough as Roosevelt's.

Dog Disappears; Small Boy Heart Broken

One of the meanest persons is one who will break a child's heart. A little Nevada City boy, Roy Draper, mourns the loss of a small pet dog that disappeared from his home three weeks ago and is still missing. The child and his dog were inseparable companions over the past three years. When he started to school the dog went as far as he could and then when school was out, hurried out to greet his little master. The little dog answers to the name of "Mister" and is a kindly shy little dog and this little boy would be deeply grateful to any one who has seen his pet. It disappeared from his home on Grove street in the early morning hours, October 16.

NO ARMISTICE

Since that celebrated Armistice Day 25 years ago, the civilized world has learned a great deal—learned the hard way, by object lessons.

One of the major lessons illustrated and reiterated is that there must be no armistice this time. The enemy must be brought to unconditional surrender.

Defeat on the battlefield is not enough. There must be no super-man myth left for a demagogic success of Hitler's to use to fan the martial spirit of the Germans into flames again. The United Nations must strive to extirpate for all time the German war machine — and the perverted philosophy that feeds and nourishes it. German war industries must be razed and never permitted to rebuild. And the Teuton war lords who have lived by the sword must die by it.

The Germans have exhibited twice in twenty five years that they entertain no sentimental considerations of mercy and justice toward the rest of the worlTd. And no such considerations should sway the allied statesmen in their treatment of a vanquished Germany.

The welfare of humanity comes first. Germany must be treated as an habitual criminal among nations until she has demonstrated her ability to live in peace with her neighbors.

OLD SPANISH GRANTS

Editor's Note: Old Spanish and Mexican Grants were the first stable form of land ownership in California, and thus they are a subject about which Californians should be informed. The San Francisco Regional Service Committee has prepared a series of six articles about these grants of which this article is the last.

When John Charles Fremont, a lieutenant in the U. S. Topographical Corps, made his second trip of exploration through the interior of California, in 1845, he camped one night in the beautiful foothills of what is now Mariposa County. He little suspected he was, sleeping on what was later to be his own princely estate, destined to yield $10,000,000 in gold nuggets and the happiest years of his life.

Las Mariposas, a grant of more than 45,000 acres to Juan Bautista Alvarado, one time governor of California, in 1844, derived its name from the creek discovered early in the nineteenth century by Gabriel Moraga, one of the most indefatigable explorers of California's central valleys. When Moraga and his men penetrated the swamp at the lower end of the creek clouds of yellow butterflies rose around them. "Mariposa" is the Spanish word for butterfly.

Fremont bought the grant in 1847 from Alvarado, who never occupied it for $4000. Six of his vaqueros were killed by Indians the first year, but after 1849 he bent all his efforts to developing the property. He built his home—the White House—in Bear Valley and there he and his wife, Jessie Benton Fremont, made their home for a number of years. On the estate rose the town of Mariposa, one of the most famed camps of gold rush days.

Early in the 40s Fremont also acquired the 17,000 acre Rancho San Emedio, which still exists in much of its original form in southwestern Kern County, from the widow of Jose Antonio Dominguez, to whom it was granted in 1842. This rancho was purchased as an investment for his children and Fremont never occupied it. Installed as ranch manager was Alexis Godey, an old companion of Fremont and Kit Carson on many a western trail and bivouac.

Despite the incredible quantities of gold extracted from the placers along the Merced River, and considerable success in the cattle business, Fremont heavily encumbered Las Mariposas. He lost it, and San Emedio as well, in his financial debacle of 1869, the result of his unfortunate association with enterprises involving the financing of mythical western railroads.

Camptonville Students In Big Paper Drive

CAMPTONVILLE, Nov. 11.—Having recently completed a very successful war bond drive, the students of the local high school are again displaying fine spirit of patriotism by conducting a campaign for waste paper. The campaign started November 7th, and is to run until November 15th, and the students are making a thorough canvas of the entire township. They have procured the lower floor of the Mayo Building as a storehouse until the drive is completed.

They gathered almost a thousand pounds on the afternoon of the first day, to add a little competition to the drive. Judge Cleveland, has offered a cash prize to the student who can show the largest number of pounds of paper gathered for the week's work. Not only is the drive netting the government a quantity of much needed paper, but it is also ridding the town of fire hazards by clearing attics, cellars, etc. of old paper stored there.

Chas. L. Wilson and son Woodrow Wilson of Sacramento were in town over the week end visiting their old home at Log Cabin.

Mrs. Frank A. Pendola, Jr., celebrated her birthday Saturday, and was given a dinner by her mother, Mrs. Leonard L. Bishop at Oak Valley.

Roy Stoddard returned a few days ago from Hollywood where he spent the past two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Percy and family of Grass Valley spent Sunday in town visiting his parents.

James A. Milner left Friday for a few days business visit at Oakland.

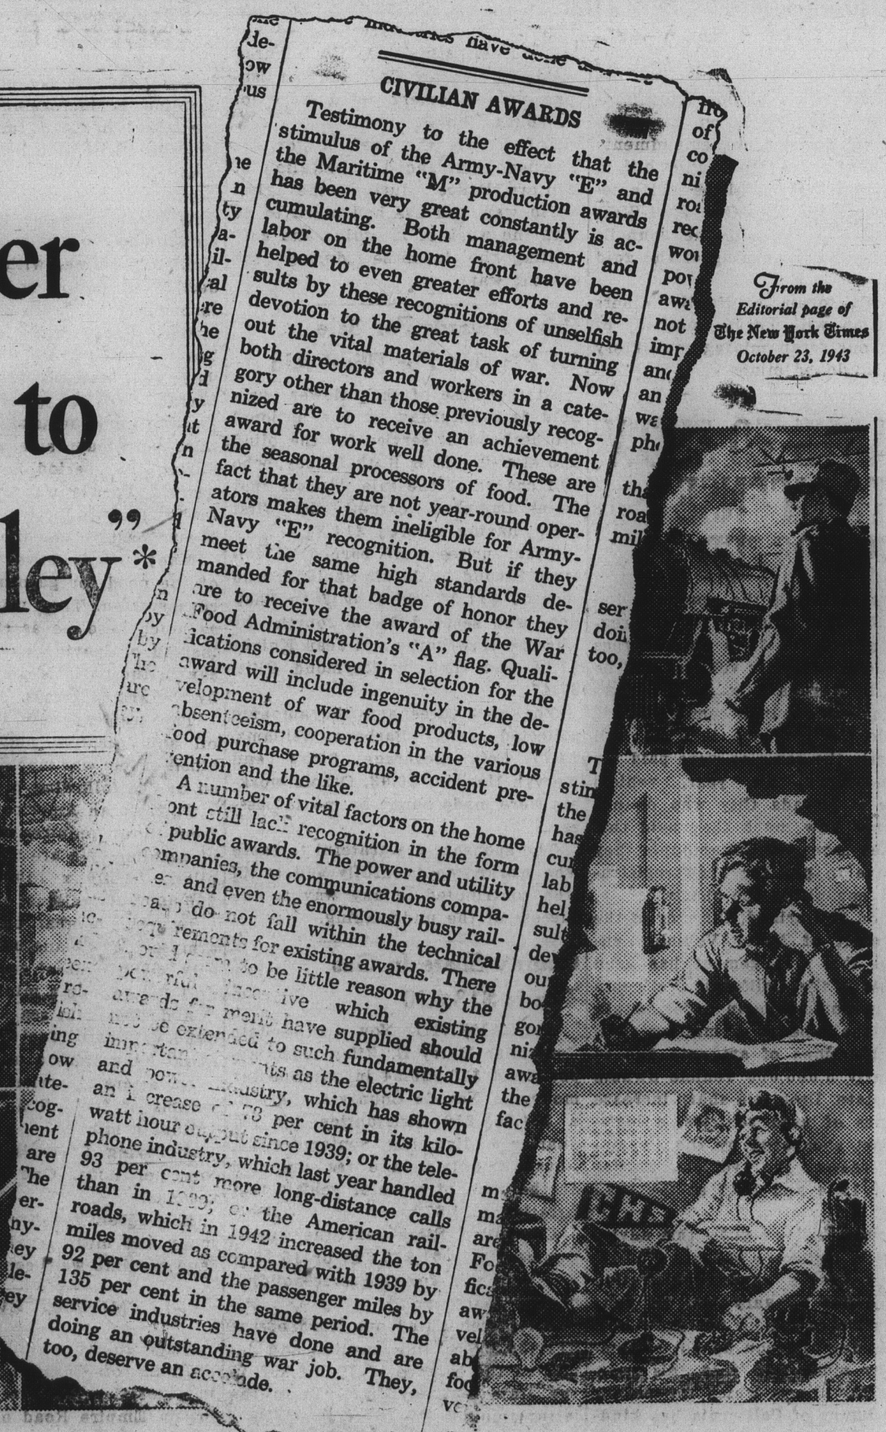
William J. Barry manager of the U. S. Employment Service at Marysville was in this section a few days ago on official business.

Mr. and Mrs. Erle Pauly and son Paul left Friday for Oakland on a short business visit.

The first eastern football team to play on the Pacific Coast was the University of Chicago which met and defeated Stanford, 24 to 0, in San Francisco in Christmas Day 1894.

The first transcontinental motorcycle trip was made in 1903 by Geo. A. Wyman, who put-putted from New York to San Francisco in exactly two months.

Another Tribute to "Mr. Dooley"*



From the Editorial page of The New York Times October 23, 1943

CIVILIAN AWARDS

Testimony to the effect that the stimulus of the Army-Navy "E" and the Maritime "M" production awards has been very great constantly is accumulating. Both management and labor on the home front have been helped to even greater efforts and results by these recognitions of unselfish devotion to the great task of turning out the vital materials of war. Now both directors and workers in a category other than those previously recognized are to receive an achievement award for work well done. These are the seasonal processors of food. The fact that they are not year-round operators makes them ineligible for Army-Navy "E" recognition. But if they meet the same high standards demanded for that badge of honor they are to receive the award of the War Food Administration's "A" flag. Qualifications considered in selection for the award will include ingenuity in the development of war food products, low absenteeism, cooperation in the various food purchase programs, accident prevention and the like.

A number of vital factors on the home front still lack recognition in the form of public awards. The power and utility companies, the communications companies, and even the enormously busy railroads do not fall within the technical requirements for existing awards. There seems to be little reason why the awards system have supplied should not be extended to such fundamentally important components as the electric light and power industry, which has shown an increase of 78 per cent in its kilowatt hour output since 1939; or the telephone industry, which last year handled 93 per cent more long-distance calls than in 1939; or the American railroads, which in 1942 increased the ton miles moved as compared with 1939 by 92 per cent and the passenger miles by 135 per cent in the same period. The service industries have done and are doing an outstanding war job. They, too, deserve an accolade.

* We have prepared a booklet, "Bill Bailey Got the Credit But the Man Behind the Gun Was Mr. Dooley", of particular interest to the Power Utilities, the Railroads, the Telephone Industry, and the Electrical Wholesalers. A copy will be sent in reply to any request on a company letterhead. Address: General Cable Corporation, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, N. Y.

HIGHWAY ASSN. TO MEET IN DOWNIEVILLE

DOWNIEVILLE, Nov. 11.—In order to avoid a conflict in dates with the Western Mining Council meeting in Nevada City, November 12th, the meeting of the Sierra Highway Association scheduled here for that date, will be held this evening.

B. V. Burke and George Thompson of the Sacramento Box Company, who have several million feet of lumber to cut in the vicinity of the proposed Yuba Pass cut-off, have stated they would be present.

Since the Calida Lumber Company which is now erecting a huge saw mill at Brandy City, Sierra County, preparatory to cutting a stand of virgin timber there, will presently be hauling 10 to 12 truck loads of lumber daily over Highway No. 49, between Indian Valley on the North Fork of the Yuba River, and Nevada City it is believed that the hazards of the road, especially in that section down to the North Fork, will be greatly increased. The association is preparing to conduct an energetic campaign to obtain improvements, such as widening the road, eliminating some of the sharp turns and reducing the steep grades.

Arnold Eugene Blake Weds Annabel Peterson

Arnold Eugene Blake and Miss Annabel Peterson were married Sunday afternoon in the Methodist Church of Grass Valley with Rev. Mark Pike reading the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Peterson of the Tahoe Ukiah Highway just outside this city's limits, and the bridegroom is the son of Capt. Jos. E. Blake of the California Highway Patrol, and Mrs. Blake.

The ceremony was staged before the church altar, adorned with masses of white chrysanthemums, satin streamers and wax tapers.

Bride's attendant was Mrs. Dorothy Braschler of San Mateo, and best man was Harold Peterson, brother of the bride. It was a double ring ceremony and ring bearers were Robert and Betty Peterson, little brother and sister of the bride. Ushers were Calvin Blake of Sacramento, Harold George, Jr., and Robert G. Roberts, all relatives of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in a white satin formal, with finger tip veil and crown of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible and white orchids with streamers of bouvardia. The matron of honor wore a pink formal of georgette and a picture hat of pink faille. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink carnations bordered with pink lace.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Blake about a block and a half from the church. The bride cut and distributed a three-tier wedding cake. On their return from a honeymoon in Southern California, the couple will reside in Grass Valley.

Ellen Joyner, president of the club, states that an invitation is issued to all interested people of both Grass Valley and Nevada City, and urges those who wish to attend to make their reservations at the Bret Harte Inn by noon Monday, November 15.

WITH OUR BOYS IN GLOBAL WAR

Ens. Harley M. Leete, Jr., now in Boston, Mass, met Lieut. Dick Bennett, in the lounge of the Fargo Building, South Boston Navy Yard, one day last week. The boys, both graduates of the Nevada City High School, class of 1935, had not seen each other for almost two years.

Cpl. Robert E. Kriegel—

Corporal Robert E. Kriegel, of Camp Hood, Texas, visited his grandmother, Mrs. Selma Kreigel, and aunt, Miss Katie Kreigel, this week. His parents reside in Auburn and he has another brother in the service.

Verne Smart—

V. Smart, native of this city who is in the U. S. armed forces, was in the South Pacific war zone from letters received here by Mrs. Paul Jurkovich, mother of Bill Laird, U. S. marine.

Gerald Davies—

Gerald Davies, brother of Miss Mary Davies manager of the Nevada County Lumber Company, has received a medical discharge from the army. He was at Indiantown Gap, Penn. when discharged a month ago. Davies is now employed at the lumber plant under his sister.

Death In Battle—

Mrs. Curran Heath has received the following reply to her inquiry regarding her nephew, Lieut. Farrel, U. S. A. A. F. killed in action while in a diving attack somewhere in the Mediterranean theatre. The letter follows:

Eighty Fifth Fighter Squadron
Office of the Commanding Officer
A. P. O. 525 C/O Postmaster
New York, N. Y.
October 21, 1943

Mrs. C. A. Heath
Box 65, Nevada City, California.
Dear Mrs. Heath:

Chaplain Ham gave me your letter, and I am sorry that I am the one who must confirm unofficially the news that the war department has already given you.

Farrel was last seen going into a dive to strafe, and his guns were blazing. His flight did not see him again after the pull-out. He was not, when last seen, on fire or in trouble, and the final moments are unknown to us. Information was received that he had been buried by the Germans and identification was established.

Such events are routine and we seldom spare time to be sad, but our sense of loss for Farrel was not routine and our sadness was real and deep. I knew him well and had high hopes for his future. All of the pilots were his friends. Since you know him and his modest and straight forward ways it is easy to understand this. He had been promoted to 2nd Lieutenant the day of his loss, and was already being considered for his next promotion. He was a superior pilot and a good man on the ground. The enlisted men of his squadron asked about word from him constantly, though they are normally less concerned by such an event than the pilots are.

I can only hope we, the people make his sacrifice a worth while thing, so that we can say the results are good though the price paid was very dear.

Sincerely,
MARK B. WAGNER,
Major, Air Corps, Commanding.

Homesick Soldier—

A homesick soldier has penned the following verses regarding his camp in Oregon:

SOUTHWEST PARADISE

Somewhere in Central Oregon, where the sun is like a curse
And each long day is followed by another, slightly worse,
Where the lava dust blows thicker than shifting desert sand,
And a soldier dreams and wishes for the greener, fairer land,

Somewhere in Central Oregon where a girl is never seen.
Where the sky is never cloudy and the grass is never geen,
Where the coyote's nightly howling
robs a man of blessed sleep,
Where there isn't any whiskey and the beer is never cheap.

Somewhere in Central Oregon where the nights were made for love,
Where the moon is like a beacon and the glittering stars above Sparkle like diamonds on a cold and chilly night,
It's a shameless waste of beauty
when there's not a girl in sight.

Somewhere in Central Oregon where the mail is always late,
And a Christmas card in April is considered up to date,
Where we never have a payday and never have a cent,
But we never miss the money 'cause
we never get it spent.

Somewhere in Central Oregon where
the ants and lizards play,
And a hundred fresh ticks replace each one you slay,
So take me back to Kentucky to let me live and dwell
For this Godforsaken place is a substitute for Hell!
